Closed Primary State

A closed primary in Florida means that only voters who are registered members of a political party which has candidates on the Primary Election ballot may vote for that party's candidates.

Voters with no party affiliation are not eligible to vote for party candidates in a Primary Election. However, all qualified voters regardless of party affiliation or no party affiliation can vote in the following races appearing on a Primary Election ballot.

- All candidates in the same race have the same party affiliation and the winner will have no opposition in the General Election. (This is known as a Universal Primary Contest).
- Nonpartisan judicial and school board offices.
- Nonpartisan special districts and other local offices.
- Local referendum questions.

At a General Election, all registered voters may vote for all candidates regardless of their party affiliation.

(Sections 100.061 and 101.021, Florida Statutes & Article VI, Section 5(b), Florida Constitution)

Voting a Provisional Ballot

What is a provisional ballot?

Provisional ballots provide a safeguard to voters whose identity or eligibility is in question. Provisional ballots may be issued at polling places on Election Day or at Early Voting sites.

Some reasons for issuing a provisional ballot:

- Voter does not show photo and signature ID when voting.
- Voter status displays ballot has been cast by mail or early vote.
- Voter's eligibility status is in question.
- A challenge has been made about the eligibility of a voter.

The county canvassing board is responsible for examining the provisional ballot certificate and making a determination as to the voter's eligibility. A provisional ballot voter must be given notice of rights including the right to show evidence of eligibility to vote. Evidence must be presented no later than 5 p.m. the second day following the election. Once eligibility has been determined, the provisional ballot will be counted.
